

This is a copy of the letter we enclose in each backpack. One side is printed in English. The other is printed in the language of the children receiving the backpacks (Swahili, Sinhalese, Albanian, Spanish, Chinese, etc.).

Hi!

Please accept my gently used backpack. I carried it back and forth to school everyday. Inside were my tools for learning; books, folders, paper, pencils. I wish to share my backpack with you.

If my backpack was too worn out, adults instead may have purchased a new one for you.
New school supplies are inside that hopefully you can use.

School backpacks stand as symbols of learning for students everywhere.
Learning helps us think and grow.
Knowledge helps us understand.
Understanding hopefully leads to peace.

I hope you will like using my backpack. When you do, think of me! 😊
Remember that it's up to us, the kids of the world. We are the hope and the light of the future.

Learn.
Think.
Grow.
Understand.
Seek peace.

Sincerely,
An American Student

Share hope. Send it in a backpack.
